

Paper Reviews

This repository is a collection of short reviews of papers in Deep Learning. Reviews are based on papers which explore novel groundbreaking ideas or consist of theoretically rich concepts. A total of 2 short reviews are added each week which explore essential aspects of the work, its technical innovation and new questions ideas raised by the work. Typical length of each review is 1-2 pages excluding references. Each review is written on a fixed set of guidelines which are given here.